or At Rherus, this morning, the sale of American hams began with great success, their price being sensibly different from that of Lorraine. Whilst the French dealers began at the rate of 2f. 80c. the kilo, those of American opened at 1f. 5c. The effect of this opposition was an immediate reduction of price; but the advantage remained with the salt hims of America, and crowds thocked to that side of the market. The stalls were so thronged, and the buyers so mimerous, that it became heressary to suspend operations for some hours, in order to arrange the mode of exit and entrance of the crowd, "The quality of the American pork, salted and slightly smoked, has been acknowledged as excellent, and all who have commenced the use of this article of food, have borne witness that it left nothing to be desired. It is with great salted the supply for the town of Rh ims, whose population stands in so great need of obtaining the necessaries of life at as cheap a rate as possible."
